The End of Suburbia: Oil Depletion and The Collapse of The American Dream

Friday, March 11, 7-9 p.m.

FREE, suggested $5 donation

This award-winning documentary examines the history and wisdom of the American suburbs, and asks how the environment has been affected by that lifestyle and whether or not it is sustainable. After the film, participate in a discussion about how the film relates to life in Reston. Special guests include: Jason Hartke (Vice President of National Policy, U.S. Green Building Council), Mark Moody (President, Clean Fairfax Council) and Nick Bauer (Member, Reston Master Planning Task Force).

The Green House: Design it. Build it. Live it.

Friday, April 15, 7-9 p.m.

FREE, suggested donation $5

This documentary follows the construction of the first carbon-neutral house in the Washington, D.C. area. It also captures the unique process of creating a "green show house" in which interior designers are challenged to create luxurious spaces based on progressive environmental standards. After the film, participate in a discussion about making our own homes "green". Special guests include Troy Tanner (President, The Home Energy Detective), Jacqui Higgins (President, Accents By Design) and Lucas Hoffman (MEP Engineer, Potomac Energy Group).

Donations support Sustainable Reston (a committee of the Fairfax Coalition for Smarter Growth) and Friends of Reston.

Seating is limited, so please register by calling 703-476-9689 and pressing 5 or email naturecenter@reston.org.
